Mr. Loosigian, a member of the class, said his classmates came from as far away as South Carolina and Florida for the event. They had such a good time they've already begun planning next year's - their 61st.

Board names South School finalists

Two are Andover teachers: Ann Coyle and Gwendolyn Warwick

By Lisa Boudreau

Two Andover teachers and one Central Massachusetts principal are the finalists who were interviewed by the School Committee Tuesday night for the acting principal position at South Elementary School.

The two Andover teachers are Betty Ann Coyle, a learning specialist assigned to the town's four elementary schools, and Gwendolyn Warwick, a teacher at South, who served as the building's acting principal during the 1988-'89 school year.

The third finalist is Timothy Wilson, principal of Brimfield Elementary School in Central Massachusetts, which has 380 students. South Elementary has 486 students.

Jade Reitman, South School principal for the past seven years, was transferred to Sanborn Elementary earlier this summer as part of Superintendent Mark McQuillan's planned staff rotation. Ms. Reitman's salary was $62,374 last year. Sanborn Principal Eileen Woods was chosen to be the new assistant superintendent earlier this summer.

There were 40 applicants for the South position, 12 of whom were interviewed by the superintendent and a volunteer screening committee made up of parents, educators and School Committee members.

The School Committee interviewed each finalist separately dur-

Planners review Genetics' expansion plans

By Don Staruk

Genetics Institute appeared to satisfy all members of the Planning Board Monday night during a public hearing on its petition to construct two new buildings at its 1 Burt Road site. One of the buildings will house biology labs for testing products on animals.

No residents and only one abutter had a question for Genetics officials. The Board of Health has already reviewed the plans and found they conform to the town's health codes.

An engineer for BTL Specialty Resins Corp., which owns the land across Lowell Junction Road from Genetics, had concerns with drainage from the Four want to be state rep.

Three Andover Democrats will face off in the Sept. 15 state primary election for the chance to run against Rep. Gary Coon, R-Andover, the incumbent who is unopposed in his party, for the 17th Essex District seat in the House of Representatives. The district includes Andover and part of Lawrence.

All four candidates spoke with the Townsman this past week about the issues that concern them and their qualifications. This week, the Townsman is running profiles of the Democrats. Next week, Rep. Coon will be profiled.

Small Bertucci's to open here

By Lisa Boudreau

A smaller version of the popular North Andover pizzeria, Bertucci's, is scheduled to open in two months in the former Brigham's location at 90 Main St.

Joey Crugnale, president of Bertucci's Brick Oven Pizzeria Corp., said renovations have begun and he had hoped to open Bertucci Menucci by the end of the summer, but meeting criteria established by the town Zoning Board of Appeals meant altering original plans.

"They had trouble with us opening up a strictly take-out restaurant like we originally wanted to. So we added 40 seats," he said.

Paul Tsongas endorses John O'Brien

John O'Brien of Andover, Democratic candidate for the 2nd Essex and Middlesex state Senate seat being vacated by Sen. Patricia McGovern, D-Lawrence, has received the endorsement of former presidential candidate and Massachusetts senator, Paul Tsongas.

"John O'Brien is exactly the kind of person we need today in our state government," said Senator Tsongas. "He is an intelligent and experienced individual who has proven himself in both the private and public sectors. He understands the potential and the limits of our government, and he has the courage to consider new ideas that will help Massachusetts rebuild its economy. I support him because he will make an outstanding state senator."

Mr. O'Brien said he is honored to have the endorsement. "He does not extend this kind of endorsement often, and I view this event as carrying with it a responsibility for me to continue campaigning in the same honest and forthright manner as Senator Tsongas when he competed for the presidency of the United States. This is the first time that I have run for elective office, so it is gratifying to receive the support of someone who is a true statesman."

Mr. O'Brien said he believes people are worried about the economy. "I am the only Democratic candidate in this Senate race who has specifically worked on issues like municipal economic development, local aid allocation, infrastructure improvement, government regulation of business and local development planning. I have worked with businesses in our district to help them create or retain jobs."

Mr. O'Brien was general counsel to the state Senate Ways and Means Committee. He currently practices law in the Merrimack Valley. He is chairman of the Andover Planning Board and an active member of the Andover Democratic Town Committee.

M. Conway campaigns in Andover

Congressional candidate Michael Conway, Republican of Lowell, was welcomed recently to the Standish Circle home of Bob and Nancy James. The event was sponsored by the James and Walter Rudulski.

Mr. Conway is challenging Chet Atkins, D-Concord, for the 5th District Congressional seat.

Mr. Conway spoke about his "home-town solutions" and economic program and his "curriculum of hope" education package. He also mentioned that he is the only non-career

NEWS IN BRIEF

AHS coach to be hired later

By Rick Harrison

Andover High School will not fill its vacant varsity baseball coaching position at least until November, according to athletic director Jim Hurley.

"We're not going to alter our procedure any," Mr. Hurley said earlier this week. "As soon as we get back to school officially (Sept. 9), all the winter coaching positions will be posted. The spring coaching jobs won't be posted until the close of the fall season in late November."

Each Andover coach is required to re-apply annually, a policy followed by many schools across the state and the country. For most positions it is just a formality.

The baseball job opened up last spring when six-year veteran Dave Bettencourt, who led the Golden Warriors to the first back-to-back Division 1 titles in the Bay State in 26 years, resigned to take the head job at the University of New Hampshire (his collegiate alma mater).

Mr. Hurley set no definite timetable for the naming of the baseball coach.

"I hope (the newspapers) don't start speculating on who the new coach will be. Sometimes names are thrown around when people don't even apply, and that leads to trouble for those people and scares off others who might have thought of applying."

"Dave left some tough shoes to fill, but we have several excellent in-house candidates and you never know who will apply from the outside until the job is posted," said Mr. Hurley.

The AHS athletic director's recent track record for appointment of new coaches, subject to approval from the School Committee, has been outstanding.

Dave Fazio (boys' basketball), Bill Cullen (ice hockey), Ken Pellerin (softball), Julie Curtis (girls' gymnastics) and Patty Fitzgerald (girls' swimming) all maintained the high level of successful programs or have begun to turn around struggling programs.

Ms. Fitzgerald has left and will be succeeded by her mother, Marilyn Fitzgerald.

Who's meeting when?

The following board and committee meetings are scheduled for the next few days:

- School Building Committee, Thursday, Aug. 27, 7:30 p.m., third floor conference room, town offices, Bartlett Street;
- Contributory Retirement Board, Friday, Aug. 28; 3 p.m., third floor, town offices;
- Council on Aging, Monday, Aug.

This black, 1984 Pontiac Firebird was hit and dragged by an MBTA passenger train Saturday just before 7 p.m. According to Andover police, the driver of the car attempted to go around the train gate. The driver, a 25-year-old Tewksbury man, couldn't see how close the train was to the crossing signal because trees obstructed the track as it emerges from the bend at Andover Street. The train hit the front passenger side of the Firebird, dragging and spinning it around. The car was hit a second time in the back end, knocking it into a guard rail where it bounced off and stopped on Andover Street, nearly 50 feet away from the crossing gate. The driver and three passengers, from Haverhill and Tewksbury, were transported to Lawrence General Hospital to be treated for injuries ranging from minor cuts to compound fractures and possible internal injuries.

School board to discuss AIDS policy

The School Committee plans to discuss its policy on AIDS in the public schools at its next meeting, Tuesday, Sept. 1, at 7:30 p.m.

Brenda O'Brien, health coordinator for the schools, will give a presentation on the current health education programs in the schools and information on AIDS.

Susan Jenkins, committee chairwoman, told the Townsmen earlier this week that the state Department of Education has instructed communities to set specific policies on AIDS and how communities will provide education for students with the HIV virus and those with full-blown AIDS.

She said Andover's current policy does not adequately define the schools' responsibilities and victim's rights in the case of AIDS.

News deadline:
Monday at 5 p.m.

Seeking good business women

The Townsmen will publish a special section Oct. 22 - Women in Business - to celebrate National Business Women's Week, which is Oct. 18-24.

Please send your nominations of business women who either live or work in Andover, or both, and who would be worthy of a story in this section. The paper seeks women who are doing outstanding work, unusual work, and work that makes a difference in the community.

Please send a brief description of her: name, address, job, duties and a statement of why she is being nominated.

Early deadline for Labor Day

Please note, Monday, Sept. 7, is Labor Day and most businesses, including the Townsmen, will be closed. Therefore, the deadline for news and display advertising to be included in the Townsmen's Sept. 10 issue is Friday, Sept. 4, at noon. The deadline for classified advertising will remain the usual Tuesday at noon.

Planners review Genetics' expansion plans

Planners also approve plans for Dyonics, Fiske Realty

(Continued from page 1) site. Genetics officials satisfied board members with their answer that there would be no increase in the current drainage out to BTL property, and planners will just confirm that fact with John Avery, town engineer.

Genetics uses recombinant DNA research to produce drugs for treatment of diseases including cancer, hemophilia and immune disorders. The two new buildings are part of a 20-year master plan to construct 1 million square feet of research and development and manufacturing space on Burt Road. The company currently occupies a 165,000 square-foot building on the 51-acre site.

A new 42,000 square-foot central energy plant, housing emergency generators and utilities, would keep the site's facilities operating in the event of a power outage. The 110,000 square-foot pre-clinical biology research laboratory would be used for pharmaceutical evaluation of the company's products.

"The pre-clinical biology building will house a vivarium, the first of its kind in Andover, in addition to research laboratories and storage space," Stephen Colyer, planning director, wrote in his memo to the board. "The vivarium will house animals used in pharmacodynamics required by the federal government (Food and Drug Administration). According to Genetics officials, rodents are used in 90 percent of the necessary studies, however, other animals including rabbits, dogs, cats and monkeys may also be used. These animals are 'purpose bred' for research, and are not obtained from pounds or from the wild."

The operations are strictly regulated by the state and federal governments, and Genetics holds all licenses and permits required for such an operation, according to Mr. Colyer.

One product developed at the company's Cambridge site, and which company officials hope will be on the market this year, is Recombinate Factor 8, a clotting agent for treatment of hemophiliacs. Dogs also suffer hemophilia and were used in the testing of Recombinate, Ms. Lindquist said.

Another of the company's products, used to fight infection in AIDS patients, is currently being tested on humans.

The company is accredited by the American Association for Accreditation of Laboratory Animal Care, a national peer group that has even higher standards than the federal government.

Genetics employs 350 persons in Andover and will add another 175 persons at full occupancy of the 110,000-square-foot research building. The Planning Board is expected to vote on the Genetics proposal at its next meeting on Tuesday, Sept. 8.

Other business
Smith and Nephew Dyonics Inc., a medical equipment company at 160 Dascomb Road, was approved for a 9,072 square-foot mezzanine addition to be built over existing floor space. The addition will increase the total building to 101,936 square feet. The addition will be used to expand current operations and the company does not plan to hire additional employees as a result of the expansion.

Fiske Realty Inc. had plans approved for 17,930-square feet of new industrial space and associated parking areas on property off Ballardvale Street in Wilmington, but most of which is in Andover.

The additions will be to an existing industrial building currently used by POSCO, a printing oil supply company, which intends to expand its operation. The total lot is 2.44 acres, .39 in Wilmington and 2.05 in Andover. The operation consists of manufacturing and warehouse areas.

Document Conservation Center receives grant

The Northeast Document Conservation Center (NEDCC), at 100 Brickstone Square, has been awarded a grant of $889,000 from the Division of Preservation and Access of the National Endowment for the Humanities (NEH). The grant provides funds to NEDCC's field service program for institutions in New England and the mid-Atlantic states.

The goal of NEDCC's field service program is to bring preservation to institutions in its area by emphasizing the prevention of deterioration and the need for systematic planning for the protection of collections, to stimulate preservation activity and to improve institutions' ability to maintain their collections. Over its 10-year history, the NEDCC field service office has had a significant impact on local and state-level commitment to preservation in the Northeast and has provided a model for other regions and states.

NEDCC's Field Service Office will work to increase institutional commitment and improve preservation practices through its on-site surveys of preservation needs; workshops, seminars and lectures; reference service; technical handouts; and its disaster assistance program. A new initiative will develop a coordinated series of workshops to provide more comprehensive preservation training than a one- to two-day workshop can provide. NEDCC also will provide consultation to states engaged in planning and implementing preservation programs and make training available to individuals involved in state preservation programming to support them in providing high-quality outreach and reference services.

Rolling Green Host Hotel now Ramada Hotel Rolling Green

Ramada Franchise Systems Inc. announces the opening of the Ramada Hotel Rolling Green, formerly known as the Rolling Green Host Hotel, at 311 Lowell St.

NEDCC will continue to provide subsidized presentation planning surveys through its field service office as well as surveys at full price. A survey includes a one-day site visit by a member of the NEDCC field service team and a report of observations and recommendations. The surveyor evaluates building conditions, collection, and storage and handling procedures in order to identify potential hazards to collections and to design strategies for preserving paper-based and documentary materials in the best condition possible. Specific goals and priorities are suggested and steps needed to implement preservation measures are outlined.

NEDCC provides a free telephone reference service. All collections-holding institutions and their patrons can call for answers to preservation and conservation questions. Packets of technical leaflets covering approximately 25 topics are available for $12.

The Northeast Document Conservation Center is a non-profit regional conservation center specializing in the treatment of paper-based materials including photographs, books, architectural drawings, maps, posters, documents, wallpaper, and art on paper. Clark Smidt consults with WEEI

Gerald R. Walsh, president and interim general manager of WEEI (Sportsradio 590, Boston, and 1440, Worcester) earlier this week announced the appointments of Harold Bausemer and Clark Smidt, an Andover resident, effective immediately, as consultants to WEEI Radio.

Mr. Smidt has worked as New England's broadcast adviser since leaving CBS Radio in 1981.

He will assist the WEEI staff in programming and promotional strategies.

Mr. Smidt began his radio career in 1966 and was responsible for starting Boston stations WBZ-FM (1971), WCOZ (1975) and the "softrock" format of WEEI-FM (1977).

He currently advises several New England broadcast operations and is owner and general manager of WNNH, Concord, "New Hampshire's Oldies 99."

He lives in Andover with his wife and two children.

In making the appointments, Mr. Walsh stated, "I've known Harold and Clark for a number of years and have been impressed with their projects in the Boston radio market."

"Their complementary talents, hard work and knowledge of this area brings a very strong combination to WEEI."

Wingate names director of admissions

Wingate Health Care President Scott Schuster has announced the appointment of Joan Cassidy, RN, as director of admissions for Wingate at Andover, the company's newest rehabilitation and skilled nursing care facility serving the Andovers.

In making the announcement, Mr. Schuster noted, "Joan is a life-long resident of the area and joins our family of homes with 13 years of nursing experience. Her intimate knowledge of the community combined with her extensive background and experience in nursing will allow her to work closely with our seniors in tailoring their health care needs with the services available at Wingate."

Joan Cassidy

A native of North Andover, Ms. Cassidy graduated from North Andover High School where she was elected to the National Honor Society. She received an associates degree from Northern Essex Community College and its High Achievement award and was on the President's Honor List. She received her diploma in nursing from Merrimack College and Lawrence General School of Nursing.

Ms. Cassidy was employed for eight years at Lawrence General Hospital as a nurse in the intensive and coronary care units. Most recently she held the positions of assistant director of nursing for three years and supervisor for two years at Hannah Duston Nursing Home. In 1989 she was presented with the Home's Employee of the Year award. Among her volunteer activities, she has participated in the Bicycle Marathon fund-raiser for Emmaus House in Haverhill.

Ms. Cassidy lives in West Newbury with her husband, Michael, and two daughters, Dara and Colleen.

Patriot passes another test

Raytheon Co. announced that the Patriot system successfully passed a major milestone in its growth program designed to expand air defense capability for the United States and its allies when a newly developed Patriot PAC-3 Multimode Missile successfully intercepted a Tactical Ballistic Missile (TBM) target at the White Sands Missile Range in New Mexico. This was the second successful guidance flight test of the Multimode Missile and demonstrated the ability of Patriot to intercept TBMs at altitudes far greater than possible with the PAC-2 configuration utilized in Desert Storm.

During the test on Friday, July 24, a Patriot Fire Unit with a tactically integrated Patriot Missile, utilizing a Multimode seeker, successfully intercepted and destroyed a surrogate Tactical Ballistic Missile.

TOWNTALK

Former Andover resident Brian Fagan, who now calls Honolulu, Hawaii, home, was recently selected a high school All-American in the sport of water polo.

Mr. Fagan, who will return to the mainland to attend Stanford University this fall, lived in town from birth until 1984.

While at Punahou High in Honolulu, Mr. Fagan was a standout on the basketball team and a top goal scorer in the Interscholastic Water Polo League.

The 6'1", 185-pound Mr. Fagan, who plays the "hole-setter" position, had been a baseball player until getting turned on to the sport of water polo several years ago.

Toward the end of his senior season last spring, he scored the winning goal in a marathon 14-13 sudden-death overtime victory against Iolani High to clinch Punahou's unprecedented ninth consecutive league championship and the school's 18th in the last 19 years.

Mr. Fagan, normally a righthander, shot the ball lefthanded on the deciding goal. He had suffered a right shoulder injury in the past and developed the lefty move at that time.

The hole-setter in water polo is similar to a center in basketball, positioned approximately two meters from the goal with a defender and the opposing team's goaltender in his face the entire game.

Mr. Fagan earned Interscholastic League of Honolulu All-Star honors as a junior and senior, and was a fifth-time All-American in 1991.

"Brian was considered an offensive force this year," Punahou Coach Ken Smith was quoted in a feature article published in the Honolulu Advertiser. "Defenses were especially geared around trying to stop him."

Mr. Fagan plans to continue playing water polo at Stanford.

Frances Avella, of Andover, returned recently from the 32nd Convention of Soroptimist International of the Americas, which took place in July in Phoenix. Headquartered in Philadelphia, SIA has more than 50,000 members in 1,500 clubs and 21 countries. It is the world's largest classified service organization for executive and professional women.

The major service project of the Haverhill/Merrimack Valley chapter, of which Ms. Avella is a member, is funding the battered women's hotline of the Women's Resource Center. Ms. Avella, who works for the Hale Hospital Foundation, was president of the local SIA group two years ago.

Carl T. Flanagan has been promoted in the U.S. Army to the rank of staff sergeant.

The senior military customs inspector is the son of Pauline Morrow of Hanover and John F. Flanagan of Andover.

He is a 1980 graduate of Silver Lake Regional High School in Pembroke.

Your Dental HEALTH

by Richard D. Hopgood, D.M.D.

BOTTLED-UP FEARS

As recent research has indicated, it is as important to limit the length of time that sugar remains on the teeth as it is to limit the amount of sugar intake. Simply put, the longer sugar sticks to teeth, the greater the likelihood of tooth decay. Nowhere is this fact more evident than in the case of "nursing-bottle syndrome." This decay problem afflicts infants who are left to sleep with bottles in their mouths. If liquids containing sugar (fruit juices, milk or formula) are allowed to pool in the mouth for extended periods, they provide a breeding ground for bacteria. As a result, the baby's teeth may well experience severe decay in the upper front teeth, and then the back teeth of both jaws. A bottle should not be used as a pacifier.

Realizing the relationship between dental health and a patient's overall health, your family dentist uses all methods of diagnosis, Preventive and restorative care to promote total patient well-being. If you have dental concerns you'd like to discuss or to make an appointment, please call 475-2431. For gentle dentistry for the entire family, we are here for you at 296 Lowell Street, Rt 133, with easy access off Rt 93, Mon & Thur 10-8; Tues & Fri 8-6; and by appointment.

P.S. If a baby must sleep with a bottle, fill it with pure water.

Youth swim teams at Y holding tryouts

The Andover/North Andover YMCA will hold tryouts for the Hurricanes swim team and Synchers synchronized swim team. Under the direction of new Head Coach Paul Getchell, a North Andover school teacher, the youth swim-team tryouts begin Monday, Sept. 14. Swimmers ages 6-18 are encouraged to come out for the team. Also included is stroke instruction for all competitive level swimmers and competition in the local YMCA league and U.S. swimming.

Tryout time is from 5:30 to 7 p.m. The rest of the practice schedule will be announced at that time. The Y is located at 165 Haverhill St. For information about the team, call Associate Aquatic Director Diane Sagaser at 685-3541.

Synchronized swimming is the aquatic art of swimming together to music. Team participation requires the swimming skills, but not the speed, of a competitive swimmer and the perseverance and routines of a gymnast. Tryouts for the Synchers will be held on Tuesday, Sept. 17, from 5:30 to 7 p.m.

Instructional classes in synchronized swimming are offered in a 16-week course, which meets Tuesdays from 3:30 to 5 p.m.

Co-Coaches Phyllis Cutler and Cybele Dupuis expect 20 or more girls to join this program. Most of the girls from last year's team are returning, but many more are welcome. Mrs. Cutler of Andover has taught the instructional program for three years as well as coached the adult Synchro Stars. She is certified as a YMCA synchro instructor and U.S. synchro level 1 and 2 instructor.

Miss Dupuis, also of Andover, formerly competed with the ANA Synchers and with the Nashua, N.H., synchronized team. Currently a student at Northern Essex Community College, she has competed in the National Age Group championships and the Bay State Games. For more information about the team, classes and adult synchronized swimming program, call either of the coaches at 685-3541.

For more information about these or any other programs, contact the Andover/North Andover Branch YMCA.

Students attend College Gate program

Three Andover children participated in the College Gate program this summer.

College Gate is a program designed to meet the academic needs of bright and academically talented children from kindergarten through grade three. College Gate in Winchester was held at the Vinson-Owen School last month.

The participating local students were Ajay Madiwale of 11 Ellsworth Road; Kathleen Minahan of 7 Wethersfield Drive; and Ryan Domigan of 120 Chestnut St.

Each student selected three 55-minute classes. All courses used a hands-on approach and were designed to move at a rapid pace.

New story-hour series for kids begins next month at the library

A new, four-week story-hour series for children ages 2 1/2 to 3 1/2 will begin at Memorial Library in September.

The series will offer parents and toddlers an opportunity to become acquainted with story-hour routines and to discover what materials are best suited for this age group. Sessions will start at 9:30 and 10:30 a.m. on Tuesdays through Thursdays. Pre-registration is available this week, in the Children's Room. Space will be limited.

Children starting first grade who do not already have their own library cards are encouraged to visit the Children's Room soon to obtain one. All that is required is a parent's signature and the child's name in his or her own handwriting.

The Children's Room recommends all school-aged children have their own library cards so they can be ready to borrow materials they will need for reports and assignments as well as for independent reading.

For more information, call Bridget

Bennett, children's librarian, at 475-6960.

Channel 11

Channel 11 will offer the final installment of the Wisecracks film series during this week in Mixed Signals; Part VII, which focuses on animals. Animal Appetites, exploring cultural differences with droll humor, pits two Cambodian immigrants, who ate a dog, against the state of California. The other films, APE and The Ugly Dog Contest, are short takes on ape life and animal attraction.

Sharing the Commonwealth, a series of programs designed to educate taxpayers about the current state of the state, takes a crack at budget cuts and their effects on children's services.

New Englanders always paid a great deal of attention to their maritime environment. In the past, it provided the livelihoods of whalers, fisherman, shipwrights and traders of all types. Now the role of our oceans seems more relegated to pleasure than profit, but there are some who still rely on it for survival. Taking care of our most valuable resource is the underlying current of the recent maritime festival in Salem. Dan Tremblay presents an on-the-scene report on Creating a Healthy Environment.

Videodate leads to couple's October wedding

By Betsy Frankengerger

When Julene Hall called up V106 radio network in Nashua, N.H., she had no idea what was in store for her future.

Responding to a contest for listeners to tell about the worst dates they ever had, Ms. Hall won first prize: A six month membership to VIDEOdates of New Hampshire.

Owner of VIDEOdates Brian Cook conducted Ms. Hall's interview, which would soon be shown to a number of men also interested in finding their dream dates. "I've never done this before," Mr. Cook told her within minutes of the session. Then he asked her out.

"I found out later that this was the truth," said Ms. Hall, who will become "Mrs. Cook" on October 3. "He never did ask out any other women through his business. I guess he thought that it was OK because I wasn't really a customer. I was a 'freebie.'"

Mr. Cook agrees. "It was a tough decision. At first I said, 'No, I won't do it.' It didn't seem ethical or proper. But I made an exception to my rule (with Julene): She was given our service through winning a contest. There did not seem to be as much of an obligation on my part. When I started the business I made a rule not to date customers, reason being they are paying money, and if 'we' didn't work out, it just would not be fair."

But things did work out for both of them: No more lousy dates for Ms. Hall and one less unsatisfied customer for Mr. Cook. The two of them shared their experiences, separately, with the Townsmen. Note the similarities between their responses to the following questions:

Love at first viewing, they tell Townsmen

What did you think of him/her after your first date?

Julene: I felt like Brian could light up a room with his presence. He really flipped me off my feet. He was a little older than I was, a nice guy and very easy to get along with. He ought to be, he's a professional matchmaker!

Brian: She was soft, feminine. I admired how she wanted to make a better life for herself. I couldn't wait to see her again.

Did you have any idea that you could fall in love with this person?

Julene: He was definitely my type. But I had it in my head that I wouldn't marry.

Brian: I had a real strong idea but I was still apprehensive about her being a "customer." I waited a little while before I called her again.

What is it about him/her that you find most attractive?

Julene: The way he is with people, the way he makes me feel.

Brian: She's ambitious about what she's doing with her life. She puts a lot of trust in me. It could be hard for a lot of women to trust me with the line of work I'm in. She's always been supportive of my business.

What do you think he/she finds most attractive about you?

Julene: What I've done with my life and where I've come from and where I'm going.

Brian: The fact that I get along with so many people so easily. I have an outgoing personality and I try to make people feel comfortable, her included.

What is his/her most bothersome habit?

Julene: He leaves the dirty dishes in the sink without rinsing them off. When he cooks, he leaves everything out until he cleans them all at once.

Brian: Julene leaves toothpaste and makeup in the sink. Our new house will have two separate bathrooms.

Which habit of yours do you think is most bothersome to him/her?

Julene: He says that I'm a pig in the bathroom. He complains that I get water all over the place.

Brian: I'm not really sure. But it may be that I'm color blind and I don't match up clothes that well. I'm always asking her if what I'm wearing looks right together.

If there is one thing that you would like to say to him/her that could be printed...

Julene: There was once a time when I couldn't imagine being married. Now I can't imagine being without you. I love you.

Brian: Honey, I love you and I'm looking forward to spending my life with you. Love, Brian.

Understanding Chiropractic

by Mark F. DeLorenzo, D.C.

THE PAIN OF LIFTING

All too many heavy lifters have experienced the excruciating lower back pain that may be triggered by carrying a heavy load. This pain is usually attributed to the abrupt, violent tightening of a muscle's fibers known as muscle spasm. As all these muscle fibers contract simultaneously, the flow of blood is partly cut off and pain results. The immediate course of action to follow under such circumstances is to lie down with a pillow under each knee and rolled-up towel under the neck. Then ice should be applied to the area (for no longer than 20 minutes at a time every hour) in an effort to numb the pain and decrease inflammation. If the acute pain of a muscle spasm does not subside within two days, a visit to the chiropractor may be in order for a more thorough evaluation.

Don't suffer needlessly with back pain. We offer natural and safe treatments to help restore and maintain the health of your entire family. For more information, call us at DELORENZO CHIROPRACTIC GROUP, 475-5042. We accept only those patients we sincerely feel we can help. Our office is located at 15 Central Street.

P.S. "Dull, chronic back pain" is likely to come from strained muscles.

Memorial Music Hall hosting an organ recital this Sunday

Frederick Swann, director of music and organist at the Crystal Cathedral in Garden Grove, Calif., will perform the Summer Restoration Fund Recital on the "great organ" in Methuen Memorial Music Hall on Sunday, Aug. 30 at 3 p.m.

The Music Hall is located at 192 Broadway (Route 28) in Methuen. Doors will open at 2:30 p.m. Tickets, sold at the door, will be $10 for adults and $3 for children under age 12.

Mr. Swann supervises one of the largest church music programs in the nation and is seen weekly on television on the Robert Schuller Hour of Power broadcast. He received his bachelor's degree with honors from Northwestern University School of Music and master's degree from Union Theological Seminary School of Sacred Music. He has been on the faculties of the Guilman Organ School and Union Theological Seminary, as well as chairman of the organ department at the Manhattan School of Music.

Mr. Swann was associated with the music ministry of the Riverside Church in New York City from 1957 through 1982, when he was named to his present position at the Crystal Cathedral. Mr. Swann is national treasurer of the American Guild of Organists and has been an active member since 1946. He has made several recordings at the Crystal Cathedral, both solo organ and with the choir.

His recital will consist of contrasting fantasy pieces: Fantasia and Fugue in C minor by Johann Sebastian Bach; The Christmas Light by Simon Preston; Fantasia in A Major by Cesar Franck; Fantasia and Frederick Swann will perform the Summer Restoration Fund Recital at Memorial Music Hall Sunday.

Fugue by C. Hubert H. Parry; Deuxieme Fantaisie by Jehan Alain; Stained Glass by Robert Hebble; and Carillon de Westminster by Louis Vierne.

The "Great Organ" was originally built in 1863 in Germany for the Boston Music Hall. The instrument was the first concert organ in the United States and had a significant influence on American organ design and construction during the latter part of the 19th-century. Today the organ is comprised of five divisions, 84 stops, 115 ranks and 6,027 pipes.

Designed by English architect Henry Vaughan for the late Methuen millionaire Edward F. Searles, the Music Hall is listed in the National Register of Historic Places. A continuing restoration project seeks to perform much-needed repairs to the 93-year-old structure. Recent renovation work consisted of the removal and replacement of parts of the bearing-wall brickwork of the building's 110-foot tower. Proceeds from the Summer Restoration Fund Recital will help underwrite the repair of active roof and flashing leaks.

ing its regular meeting Tuesday night and will vote on Dr. McQuillan's recommendation next Tuesday, Sept. 1, at its regular meeting in the school offices on Whittier Place, at 7:30 p.m.

Timothy Wilson

Mr. Wilson lives in Natick, with his wife, Trudy, a social worker and administrator at Boston University, and their two college-age daughters and 5-year-old daughter. Mr. Wilson was the first candidate interviewed by the committee. He said he wants to work in a suburban school system such as Andover because as a principal in Brimfield, he has spent "long hours away from his family working at school, but not on educational issues. I was working on getting broken boilers and an old building fixed. My talents in leadership and curriculum development were not being used."

He has a bachelor's degree in English, a master's degree in school administration and curriculum and is certified as an elementary and secondary school principal.

Before becoming principal of the Brimfield Elementary School two years ago, Mr. Wilson worked for the state Department of Education from 1979-1990 as a regional Title I supervisor, an early childhood special education specialist and a regional team leader for curriculum and instruction.

"Working for the state I sat behind a desk all day and gave out grant money. After a while I became so restless that I began making up reasons to go out and visit the schools applying for grant money. I'm thrilled to be back in the schools," he said.

Mr. Wilson began his educational career as a first-grade teacher in the Arlington public school in 1967. From 1968 to '72 he directed a project to study the impact of male staff on primary grades in Arlington. His work resulted in national exposure, and was featured in Newsweek, Reader's Digest and the Washington Post, he said.

Mr. Wilson also headed Arlington's Title I programs in reading, math and language arts from 1970 to '76. He was headmaster of the Palfrey Street School, a private school in Watertown, for two years.

When asked to list his strengths and weaknesses as seen through his employees' eyes, Mr. Wilson said he is a caring administrator who has high standards for himself, his staff and his students. He said he is also very supportive of his staff and believes in shared problem solving and decision making. He said one fault people may see in him is that he "tries to do too much at one time."

Betty Ann Coyle

Ms. Coyle, a 22-year veteran of the Andover public schools, said she wants the South School position because her experience as a classroom teacher and head of several different programs have given her special insight into running a school.

She has taught third through sixth grades, as well as planned and implemented the town's elementary math programs during the past four years in her role as an elementary learning specialist.

Ms. Coyle lives in Windham, N.H., with her husband, former West Elementary School Principal Jack Coyle, who retired in June. They have three adult daughters, one adult son and a 5-year-old grandchild.

Ms. Coyle has a bachelor's of science degree, a master's degree in education and is a certified elementary school principal. During her tenure in Andover she has worked with the elementary math curriculum committee, co-chaired the math steering committee and trained new staff and associate teachers, as well as organized the pre-kindergarten screening program. She has also presented various language-arts work shops and supervised and evaluated students in the Chapter I reading program.

Ms. Coyle said her strengths are her leadership skills, her ability to work with and bring together diverse personalities and teaching styles.

"The people I work with will tell you that I genuinely value their opinions and I'm willing to sit down and talk things through," she said.

Ms. Coyle said a weakness may be that she is too reflective and is always looking back at her work and wondering if she could have done something different.

THE EASY WAY TO HOUSE HUNT

If you've been house-hunting on your own, you've probably been relying on the classified ads or driving through your favorite neighborhoods in search of "For Sale" signs. A good Realtor can save you time and gasoline, making your search easy and efficient.

Agents learn about homes as they go on the market, and the best values may sell before they're ever advertised! Good agents often beat the sign installation crews to the scene! Since the agent has seen so many of the available homes, he or she will be able to rule out many of the ones that don't fit your tastes or needs, saving you the trouble of having to go through them. With the increased use of the Multiple Listing Service, an agent can show you listings of colleagues from other firms, as well as those listed by his or her own company. A Realtor can also give you any information you need about nearby public transportation, schools shopping, and recreational facilities.

two through five in Andover since 1973. For the past five years she has taught at South School where she has also been a kindergarten through grade five team leader and served as acting principal during the 1988-'89 school year.

Ms. Warwick has bachelor's and master's degrees in education and she is a certified elementary school principal. She is single and lives in Lowell.

Ms. Warwick is the chairwoman of the South School enrichment team and has worked with parents and faculty to bring supplemental cultural opportunities to students before and after school. She has also worked with the curriculum development and revision team and written three successful grants that have brought money to South School to develop a writing program.

Ms. Warwick said her strengths are a good working relationship with the South School staff, students and parents that would make the start of school easier in September.

"The staff at South knows I'm a very hard worker and I think they respect that. They know they can come to me and that I will offer them the support they need from an administrator," she said.

The School Committee will next meet Tuesday, Sept. 1, 7:30 p.m. in the school administration building on Whittier Court.

West Elementary plans carnival

By Lisa Boudreau

West Middle School parents plan to celebrate their building's facelift and raise money to continue improving the school by hosting a four-day carnival, Thursday, Oct. 1, through Sunday, Oct. 4.

The School Committee approved the West Fest carnival slated for the WMS parking lot, providing the organizers meet town regulations.

Chris Outwin voiced reservations at the committee's meeting.

"If one school raises monstrous amounts of money to pay for things another school doesn't have, then that will result in imbalances," he said.

The committee agreed that it should not attempt to tell parent groups how to raise funds or spend money, but it wants to make sure that one PTO isn't tapping the community's donation potential in a one-shot event.

Dr. McQuillan said the parents plan to use the money for enrichment activities and teacher training programs. He suggested arranging for Doherty Middle School teachers to enroll in the training programs.

Four are running for state representative

"I don't believe the Republican philosophy is the proper way to govern," Mr. Desmond said.

He fancies himself a student of history and said the Republican approach is, and always has been, one of prioritizing "fiscal needs rather than human needs," and of cutting both taxes and spending programs.

"They don't look at the consequences of saving money," Mr. Desmond said.

But the state Democratic party under Michael Dukakis moved so far left it stopped looking at responsible fiscal policy, he said. The Democrats ran a one-party state and didn't even pretend to listen to other opinions.

This is Mr. Desmond's second run for the Statehouse, having lost to Sue Tucker in the primary two years ago. His opponent, Ellen Murphy, is the candidate of the Democratic Town Committee, the "same machine" that sponsored former Rep. Susan Tucker and supported Michael Dukakis, Mr. Desmond said.

"I don't think they're looking at responsible government," he said of the town committee.

Economy

Mr. Desmond does not buy the argument that providing tax incentives for businesses will help the economy, because there is no market to invest in, he said.

"The market is so weak the tax incentives would be useless," Mr. Desmond said.

First the market must be built up, and that can be done by getting rid of the Massachusetts sales tax, he said.

"If we did away with sales tax, it would be, in effect, giving people a 5 percent increase in their salary," Mr. Desmond said.

The sales tax chases business into New Hampshire, according to Mr. Desmond. This state lost $33.4 million to New Hampshire last year in cigarette sales tax alone, according to a recent study, Mr. Desmond said. That is money he said should be spent in this state.

With more business settling in Massachusetts, there would be more jobs, which would mean an increased tax base and more money for investment. Then the tax incentives could help, he said.

But the removal of the sales tax would have to be accompanied by a change in the income tax to keep the revenues up for the state. Mr. Desmond recommends a more moderate, progressive income tax, instead of the current flat rate of 5.95 percent, and getting rid of deductions.

He proposed, in rough figures, a rate for lower income taxpayers, those earning less than $15,000 or $20,000, could be 3 percent. Moderate income residents, earning $20,000-$85,000, would pay 6 percent, and upper income, more than $85,000, would pay 10 percent.

A third step he proposed would be to get rid of the capital gains tax for owner-occupied homes, while leaving it on investment property, stocks, bonds of other speculation investments.

Weld

Mr. Desmond said Gov. Weld is anti labor and cited as an example his education reform package.

"The philosophy that Bill Weld has and that I have are worlds apart," Mr. Desmond said. "Weld's ancestors had my ancestors digging canals in Lowell and I don't think his philosophy's changed a lot."

Mr. Desmond grew up in Lowell in "The Acre," what he called an Irish slum.

John Silber

Regarding the possibility of a run for governor by John Silber, Mr. Desmond said he can only judge Mr. Silber on what he did, or didn't do, in Chelsea. Mr. Silber said he would take over the school system in that town and make it work, "and he hasn't done it at all," Mr. Desmond said.

"But I would take him over Bill Weld," he said.

The last good Massachusetts governor was Ed King, Mr. Desmond said.

"Ed King was a conservative Democrat, much the philosophy that I have," Mr. Desmond said.

When Gov. King took office in 1978, the economy was poor and inflation was high, Mr. Desmond said. By the time Mr. King's term was up, jobs were coming back and a $100 million surplus was in the treasury. Mr. Desmond said he was flabbergasted when Mr. King lost to Mr. Dukakis.

"(Gov. Dukakis) began the socialization again," Mr. Desmond said.

Privatization

Mr. Desmond supports privatization of some public services but not where issues of public safety or education are concerned. Each proposal for privatization would need to be judged on its own merits as to whether it would be better served in a free market. These services could include programs such as Medicaid, Social Security and Welfare.

"I wouldn't rule it out," Mr. Desmond said.

District

Mr. Desmond doesn't agree with candidates who say Andover is not that different from the sections of Lawrence that are in the district.

"I see them as completely different worlds myself," Mr. Desmond said.

He has found some of the district areas in Lawrence are poor, working class while Andover is wealthy, upper middle class. And the parts of Lawrence that are in the district, Tower Hill and South Lawrence, are not the worst parts of the city, he said.

"The people, they're poor, but they're good people," he said.

Many of them are elderly who can't possibly sell their homes in the bad market, he said.

Mr. Desmond said he is not intimidated or uncomfortable going door-to-door in the Lawrence neighborhoods, because of his upbringing among the canals in Lowell.

And he said the laws the Legislature deals with address problems across the state, not just in Lawrence or Andover.

Welfare

Mr. Desmond favors re-examining the state's welfare program to create incentives for people to get off welfare.

People want to work, but are afraid they will lose their welfare checks, so they don't, he said. He would like to look for a way to continue the checks while people are becoming self sufficient.

He also wants to review the food stamp program to rid it of abusers who sell the stamps to buy drugs.

Abortion

"As far as a method of birth control is concerned, I'm against abortion," Mr. Desmond said.

If an abortion is needed for health reasons, or because of rape or incest, then it's none of the government's business and should be a personal decision, he said. He would consider any proposed legislation regarding abortion, but is philosophically against it.

"It's contributing to the dehumanization of our society. So for that reason, I'm against abortion," Mr. Desmond said.

People are too materialistic and Americans have lost respect for other human beings and for individual rights, he said. With the abortion issue, people are "qualifying human life," Mr. Desmond said.

"When we allow abortion, we're whittling away at the value of the human being," he said. "I think it's unhealthy."

But he is not a pro-lifer who calls women who have abortions murderers and he is not throwing stones at anyone, Mr. Desmond said. But as a member of government it would be his place to try and affect society.

Education

The Legislature last month earmarked $186 million for education reimbursements to cities and towns, $492,000 of which is slated for Andover. Administrators in some towns hoped to use part of that money for something other than schools, but Mr. Desmond doesn't support that position.

"If money comes out of the Statehouse earmarked for a certain project, that's where it should go," Mr. Desmond said.

He is in favor of keeping school funds in local government where, he said, officials are more accountable to the community. People have to support the schools at the local level and they are not, Mr. Desmond said.

North Andover and Lawrence are facing loss of their accreditation because they don't have enough money for required programs. If people continue to maintain the limitation that they put on their school systems, they are going to pay a price, Mr. Desmond said.

As a legislator, he would not try to undermine Proposition 2 1/2. That is up to the voters who approved it, he said. But voters will probably have to override Proposition 2 1/2 to fund education in the future or face long term effects on society, he said.

"Ignorance is much more expensive than education," Mr. Desmond said.

Ellen Murphy

Ellen T. Murphy

Age: 28

Address: 28 Johnson Road

Education: Master's in business administration, University of Virginia.

Job: Former vice president of real estate development firm.

Personal: Single, lives at home.

Ellen Murphy decided to run for office because of what she called a "crisis of confidence in government."

With her recent master's degree, and her experience in the public and private sectors, she said this is an opportune time to run for office.

"I think I bring a different perspective than Gary Coon or my (Democratic) opponents," Ms. Murphy said.

Ms. Murphy spent a summer at the University of Miami's Dade County Hospital analyzing hospital programs. She also spent three years working in real estate development. She has had some offers for real estate consulting jobs, but is currently spending all her time on the campaign.

People are concerned with mismanagement of their money and her qualifications satisfy that concern, Ms. Murphy said. She is campaigning on three major issues: excellence in education, economic development and public safety.

Education

Ms. Murphy said local aid funds should be earmarked specifically for public education.

She would also like to work to bring more local aid, for schools and in gen-

Four are running . . .

Ellen Murphy

Ellen Murphy

eral, into the community in a more regular and predictable manner. She supports Question 5, from the 1990 ballot questions, which called for 40 percent of all state revenues to be returned to cities and towns in the form of local aid.

"At least in that way, you'd know it wasn't the step-child to the budget," Ms. Murphy said.

She approves the state's recent earmarking of $186 million in local aid for schools.

"I liked the idea of the state earmarking funds for certain things," she said.

Proposition 2 1/2 has been overridden in many cities and towns for police or fire protection, but not for schools, according to Ms. Murphy.

"So it's good the state took the lead," she said.

Gov. Weld and the Republicans are out of touch with education and showed it with their support of the school choice plan, she said. The education reform plan Gov. Weld tried to force through the Legislature is radical and ineffective, she said.

Ms. Murphy received an endorsement from the Massachusetts Teachers Association on Aug. 12.

Economic development

Competitiveness in Massachusetts is based on an educated and skilled work force, according to Ms. Murphy.

A partnership must be formed between the public and private sectors such as the Massachusetts Industrial Finance Agency, which helps set up financing for businesses and assistance to get jobs for communities, she said.

Ms. Murphy worked on creating affordable housing in Tewksbury while doing permitting design and analysis for real estate development company, in a case where the Massachusetts Housing Agency worked with developers to bring down interest rates for buyers, she said.

Public safety

Ms. Murphy said auto theft and domestic violence are two public safety issues she'd like to attack and said that attack can be made through court reform.

Gov. Weld

Gov. Weld's moves to use gasoline-tax revenues for projects other than roads and other infrastructure needs is wrong, and that money should be used as it was intended to be used, she said.

And while unemployment is at a high for the decade, Gov. Weld and Rep. Coon are advocating cutting back the length of time residents can collect benefits, from 30 to 26 weeks, according to Ms. Murphy. That is not being sensitive to people's needs she said.

It is no coincidence that domestic violence has increased in the bad economy, she said.

John Silber

Ms. Murphy was not aware that John Silber was considering another run for governor, but was not concerned.

"I can't understand why anybody voted for him to begin with," Ms. Murphy said.

Abortion

Ms. Murphy is pro-choice.

"I support a woman's right to choose," she said.

Only recently have people made an issue of her abortion stance in her door-to-door canvassing, she said. One potential voter admitted outright that she would not be able to support Ms. Murphy because of her stand. Another had told Ms. Murphy she was pro-life and, when Ms. Murphy said that she was pro-choice, the resident said she might vote for her anyway because of her honesty.

Privatization

"Generally, I disagree with Weld's interest in privatizing things," Ms. Murphy said.

Privatization of mental health facilities has not worked well, she said. The tendency in privatization is to make efficiency match a profit that has to be made, and those who should benefit suffer.

The first time some service goes out to bid, it may be cheaper. But in time it may not stay cheaper. And while there may be some savings when the state turns a service over to be privately run, it will be more expensive to bring it back into the public fold later on.

She questioned, with jails for instance, do you measure their financial success or whether they are doing their job.

"Profit is the bottom line, not caring for the citizens," she said of privatization.

Tony Silva

Tony Silva

Age: 37

Address: 49 Juniper Road

Job: Owner of Lightship Liquors, 94 S. Union St., Lawrence.

Education: Bachelor's degree, Merrimack College; master's degree in special education, University of Massachusetts, Boston.

Personal: He and his wife, Maryellen, have a son, Anthony, 8, and a daughter, Alyssa, 20 months.

Tony Silva says his experience as a municipal administrator separates him from his three opponents.

"I have experience in government and I see experience in municipal government as a prerequisite to state government," Mr. Silva said. "My opponents don't have any experience in business. They don't have any experience in government. All I want to do in this campaign is compare."

Mr. Silva served as alderman and director of public property and parks for the city of Lawrence for more than four years where he had responsibility for municipal operations and a $3 million budget. He also dealt with civil service negotiations and sought and obtained federal funding for special projects. A $1 million park was built under his supervision, using urban renewal grants, and his historic preservation efforts helped restore City Hall tower, he said. He left his position when his term on the commission expired.

"It was time to move on," Mr. Silva said.

He moved to Andover shortly afterward.

"I'm a young aggressive experienced candidate," Mr. Silva said. "I like government and I've worked in government and I know how to get things done."

Education

Mr. Silva worked with special education in Haverhill public schools and briefly taught at Lawrence High School and said his background in education also separates him from his competition.

"Quite frankly, Mr. Coon doesn't have any experience in education," he said.

Mr. Silva said he believes that if the state mandates an education program, the state should pay for it. He said it's irresponsible for the state to pass that cost on to cities and towns.

The $186 million in state aid the Legislature recently kicked back to communities for schools should be used to pay for state mandated programs, Mr. Silva said. That would allow cities and towns to manage their own money, he said.

Mr. Silva also defended educators against what he said is unfair criticism when test scores drop. Circumstances outside teachers' control, such as an influx of immigrants or problems with children at home, can affect test scores and its unfair to criticize the teachers and the quality of education.

He said he doesn't like to see education used as a political bargaining tool and criticized Gov. Weld for his handling of the teacher tenure issue, which he said was a slap in the face for teachers and should have been handled behind closed doors.

Business

"Being a small businessman, I know the cost of doing business. I know the good, the bad and the ugly, and I know the only thing that's going to change this economy is small business," Mr. Silva said.

Small business creates jobs and invests locally, according to Mr. Silva.

"And I can bring that experience to the state house," he said. "Too often, representatives have no municipal experience or business experience and quite frankly, they've never had a real job. And I offer that as a candidate."

He knows the problems on the street from working there, Mr. Silva said.

"You couldn't get any closer to the street than I am," he said.

Mr. Silva said he doesn't have to look at gross national product figures at the end of the month to see how the economy is doing, he sees it in his cash flow.

If elected, Mr. Silva said he would keep his liquor business but hire an extra employee to take his place in the store.

Economy

The economy is the premier issue in this election, Mr. Silva said.

"Jobs and creating jobs," he said.

Attracting business back to this state will create jobs, and will raise money to spend on education and public safety, Mr. Silva said. The first thing a business looks at is quality of life and public safety, he said.

"Because if people aren't safe, they're not going to shop in your store," Mr. Silva said.

He favors establishment of enterprise zones and tax credits for business investment.

"Everything is a spin off of the economy," he said.

And he wants Massachusetts to compete for the businesses that line the borders. Miller Lite beer sells more product in southern New Hampshire than anywhere else in the country because of the business going across the Massachusetts border, he said.

"There is no reason we can't make Massachusetts the shopping center of New England," Mr. Silva said. "If we want to be aggressive, we have to be aggressive about being competitive."

He said there is no movement on Beacon Hill right now and that he thinks he can be a catalyst.

Mr. Silva said he is a fiscal moderate, and would spend what is available.

"I'm not going to borrow. I'm not going to raise fees and fines," he said.

Democratic choice

John Desmond is a conservative Democrat who wants to do away with the state sales tax. Ellen Murphy is running on three main campaign issues: education, economics and public safety. And Tony Silva, a fiscal moderate, favors tax credits for business investments.

The three Democrats are running for incumbent state Rep. Gary Coon's, R-andover, seat. And if you read their profiles, you will note that they are different.

Mr. Desmond says he's "worlds apart" from Gov. Weld; Ms. Murphy says she often disagrees with the governor; and Mr. Silva says he can relate to Gov. Weld's economics.

Mr. Desmond says abortion should not be used as birth control, but he is not a pro-lifer. Ms. Murphy and Mr. Silva support a woman's right to choose about abortion.

So voters have their homework cut out for them, in choosing their candidate for state rep. in the Democratic primary Sept. 15.

Business sense

Andover resident Charles Daher, who owns Commonwealth Motors in Lawrence, is being a good community member while making good business sense at the same time.

He has donated a 1992 Geo Metro to Big Brothers/Big Sisters of Greater Lawrence, the group that matches adult mentors with young people who benefit from adult friendship. The organization is selling 300 raffle tickets at $100 each for an Oct. 4 drawing for the car. The funds will support Big Brothers/Big Sisters.

Mr. Daher heard that the group, like many, is suffering from budget cuts. This excellent organization is empowering youngsters from single-parent families to develop positive self-esteem so they can pursue life opportunities.

Mr. Daher gets publicity for his business, as well as personal satisfaction. We think that's smart.

Education is expensive; enjoying life isn't

By Perry Colmore Catlin

While checking out of the grocery store Sunday, I heard a young man ask the clerk if she was nervous about going to college in a few weeks. I asked her where she was going and where she'd been. She's a 1992 graduate of Andover High School and she's headed for a college in Worcester.

Parents are always telling their offspring to study hard and kids get sick of hearing it from them. So lately, I've been saying it to students who aren't my own children, thinking if it comes from someone who is not their parent, they may listen.

"Study hard," I advised the young clerk. "It will be worth it."

"I know," she answered. "High school was free but this is expensive."

Even though I didn't respond to her comment, I've thought about it during the last few days. Even though it was innocent on her part, something is wrong here. Somehow it would be good if our children understood about tax dollars, that we spend money to fund high school education. Sounds as if they might study harder if they understood what it takes to educate them.

Maybe kids should have to work a few hours a month to pay for part of their high school education. That way, they would understand that it does cost to go to high school, that it takes money, lots of it, to run a school.

I had one of those magical times late Sunday afternoon when I took a walk with my golden retriever, Sophie, to visit, pick and admire the garden of some neighbors who are away on vacation.

We walked to the garden, just 10 or 15 minutes away, to a private area where I was able (legally) to let Sophie run free. She took off into the green fields, occasionally running back to check on me, running off after big black crows sunning themselves, chasing butterflies into the sun. When we got to the large community garden, I asked her to sit in one of the paths so that she wouldn't bother any of the snapdragons or herbs and vegetables that are struggling after too much rain. Sophie was hot - panting - and she obediently sat and watched as I picked and pruned.

It was so beautiful. I remembered this is why we are here on this Earth, that we often forget to make time for such seemingly-simple moments.

Later, while walking home with two bags full of colorful flowers, two green tomatoes and some parsley, I felt sorry for Sophie because she was panting so hard.

"I should have brought along a canteen of water," I said to a dog who is used to my chatter.

Up ahead I noticed a drinking fountain with a spigot near the bottom.

"Here girl, come here," I said and cupped my hands to make a bowl for her. She lapped water from my hands for quite some time, looking grateful, her soft pink tongue moving rapidly.

And then we were on our way. I am always rewarded for caring about her, just as she was for caring about me.

Dragon's Lair has been hit by vandals

Editor, Townsmen:

Dragon's Lair playground at Bancroft School is closed this week and next for much needed repair and refurbishing. The Bancroft PTO voted this past June to fund the project since there had been considerable deterioration of the structure and several accidents had occurred at the school.

Although the Dragon's Lair is used not only by Bancroft children but by DCS and many other children from Andover and surrounding communities, it was unclear who was responsible for its upkeep; therefore the PTO stepped in.

This letter is meant to report to and reach out to the community to help us keep Dragon's Lair the wonderful resource for our children that it is. The vandalism and resulting damage to the playground this past summer is appalling and has resulted already in an increase of $600 in the estimate given the PTO to repair it. It is clear that the damage is being done at night by young adults with equipment such as crowbars. Not only is there broken beer bottles and debris around the play area, entire boards are being pried loose. Our custodians earn our thanks for all the extra effort they put forth keeping up with the vandalism.

The Andover Police Department has already been notified and have been very gracious in their response. But there is only so much an understaffed police force can do in the way of extra patrols. As they have told us, the community is their eyes, and so we are reaching out to you. Keep your eyes open and report any individuals or cars that you see on the playground after dark. The police welcome these calls and tell us not to hesitate calling. Members of the PTO will be driving by during the coming weeks to insure that the money we are spending will be seen by our children this fall in the way of a safe and fully operational playground, but we need you as well.

We would also like to ask parents to be aware of where their teen-aged children are spending their nights. It is all too easy to blame "others' kids" for this vandalism. Many of these vandals could be our own children. And while Dragon's Lair is clearly not the only area in town where damage is being done, it is one that is loved by many Andover children and parents alike. We hope our efforts will help make this so for years to come.

Are you from a founding family of Andover?

Editor, Townsmen:
Dear friends:

If you are a descendant of one of the following founding families of Andover, you are specially invited to a lecture and service on Wednesday (Sept. 2) at the Interfaith chapel of Andover. The lecture at 6 p.m. is with historian Barbara Thibault of the Andover Historical Society. It is titled "300 Years Ago: A Return to the Andover of 1692. Our history and undevoted mysteries."

The service of remembrance, which I will coordinate, begins at 7 p.m. The chapel is located in the West Parish 1692 Burial Ground; the entrance to the burial grounds is at the intersections of Lowell Street, Reservation Road and Shawsheen Road.

Because it would be extremely difficult to contact all the descendants, we have asked the Andover Townsman to help locate you. Many people will know that they are descendants of these earliest families. Other people may recognize a name and remember stories about a distant relative. Perhaps you share one of the family names of a person from the list below.

The lecture and service are open to the public and everybody will be warmly received. However, the descendants of these following early settlers of Andover are especially invited. These settlers included:

The Rev. Thomas Barnard family
The Andrew Foster family
The Thomas Chandler family
The Joseph Ballard family
The Nathan and Mary Ayer Parker families
The John Ayer family
The Samuel Phelps family
The Christopher Osgood family
The Thomas Lord family
The Daniel Bigsby family
The John Aslet family
The Timothy Johnson family
The Edward Farrington family
The Robert Swan family
The Richard Barker family
The John Abbot family
The John Stevens family
The John Marston family
The Moses Tyler family
The John Lovejoy family
The Joseph Wilson family
The Phineas Sprague family
The Dudley Bradstreet family
The Rev. Francis Dane family
The Edmund Ingalls family
The Thomas Carrier family
The John Jackson family
The Edmund Bridges family
The Francis Faulkner family
The John Johnson family
The Walter Wright family

The John Sadie family
The John Post family
The Samuel Wardwell family
The Henry Salter family
The Samuel Martin family

If you are not sure and have the same last name as one of these families, you may want to look into your genealogy. However, the lecture and the service are open to all. So, even if you are not related to these founding families, you are most welcome to attend.

We hope to see you on Wednesday, Sept. 2, at 6 p.m.

Resident backs Lambert and Meehan

Editor, Townsmen:

Mr. Paul Lambert of Lawrence is a candidate in the Democratic primary for the state Senate seat being vacated by Pat McGovern, whose district includes the town of Andover. Paul recently came out with an announcement of support for Mr. Martin Meehan of Lowell, a Democratic candidate for U.S. Congress in the Fifth District, which also includes the town of Andover. The main reason for this public show of support, pronounced Mr. Lambert, is the fact that Marty Meehan was, like himself, a "city kid" who had "worked his way up the political ranks."

Martin Meehan's career has included working as an aide for Lowell's ex-state senator Paul Sheehy, working for Phil "Sooky" Shea, another of Lowell's ex-state senators, and different positions with Secretary of State Mike Connolly. Marty has indeed worked his way up the political ranks, man aging to spend his entire career on the state payroll in one capacity or another. Paul Lambert's resume is simply a variation on this same theme.

In contrast, the vast majority of the people these two politicians would like to represent are not "city kids" who have spent their lives in the employ of the government. Most people work for private companies and corporations, or run their own businesses or firms. They share a widespread distaste for ambitious political climbers and would someday like to see a more truly representative form of government, not an elected body of political operatives who have demonstrated the cleverness to have played the angles correctly.

Shawsheen Plaza is an eyesore

Editor, Townsman:
An open letter to the owners and merchants of Shaw-sheen Plaza:

If an Andover customer were to travel the entire length of these great United States, they would be hard put to see a more ugly mall than the one and only on the main street of a pretty vil-lage.

It is an eyesore. Weeds are its only decor.

When the plans for this mall were before our Planning Board a millennium ago, they in no one way represented what was put in our faces for these many years!

Other, less busy merchants on Main Street pay each year to have barrels of lovely flowers.

The ladies of Andover Garden Club laboriously plan every one. What can be done for a parking lot and stores that refuse to give us once ounce of beauty?

Our betterment of America begins in our communities. Isn't that what all the politicians are saying?

Start here.

RECYCLE

By Virginia Cole

The New American Revolution is the name and theme of the 11th National Recycling Congress and Exposition to be held in Boston Sept. 14-17.

We in Andover have been at this recycling business for more than 11 years and it is great that people over the whole United States, with the impetus springing from the grass roots, little organizations, have been at it this long, too.

The congress will have education sessions; workshops on training for recycling coordinators (probably a new job opportunity for the upcoming years), financing, basic economic principles applied to all phases of recycling; designing and expanding campus recycling programs (we should be more active along these lines with Phillips Academy and Merrimack College); information on design of packages for best product recyclability and on meeting specifications for glass, paper and plastic so our recyclables will not be rejected when we are ready to sell them; and the most exciting, Andover's own Dana Duxbury will lead a workshop on household hazardous waste.

She will focus on site collecting, health and safety considerations, wastes to collect, funding and education of the public.

The attendees will be given opportunities to visit outstanding recycling facilities in the Boston area. The Wellesley Dump, as it was once known, is the most famous for the complete volunteer recycling facility with opportunities to recycle paper, glass, plastic, aluminum, computer, book and clothing exchange, etc.

An MRF (materials recovery facility) in Springfield is on the list. This is the sort of facility we were once promised by the state and it is what we need in our area to increase our options for recycling.

North Shore Recycled Fibers, where our own waste paper has gone for years, is a paperboard mill, well known for its sorting and baling waste papers for foreign and domestic markets.

Plastics recycling is shown in Littleton; glass manufacturing in Milford; de-inking newspaper in Hyde Park, and other paper board mills and waste processing plants are available for inspection.

There will be exhibits at the Hynes Auditorium where the congress takes place so anyone interested in this field for their town, their vocation or new business opportunities can see the latest in technology as well as hear the latest ideas.

MassRecycle is the host. MassRecycle is the only statewide recycling coalition. Everyone is eligible to join. Contact them at the Hynes auditorium Sept. 14-17 for further information.

Andover resident Ginny Cole is a member of Andover Recycling. She also is the president of the Andover League of Women Voters.

OUR NEIGHBORS

North Andover High gears up for a new year

By Mary Katis

When North Andover High School opens its doors Wednesday, Sept. 9, it begins a new school year with 840 students enrolled. Thanks to increased state aid, some teachers will return and the administrators interviewed by the Townsmen seem ready to reach for new programs and improvements.

Richard Rozzi, assistant principal of the high school, is optimistic about the programs and new teacher positions that were established because of $340,000 the North Andover schools received in state aid. The New England Association of Schools and Colleges placed North Andover High on probationary status due to the budget cut backs and resulting losses over the past two years.

No-cost busing

High school students who live two miles or more from school will be eligible for busing at no cost, according to Mr. Rozzi.

"We weren't sure about the busing until recently," he said.

Grants and programs

Ron Binkney, the new assistant superintendent of North Andover schools, will be involved with staff development, curriculum and grant writing to bring new programs to the students.

Dr. Binkney lives in Newburyport with his wife, Susan, and their three children. He also has two step-children, ages 25 and 29. He was the Wherham director of curriculum and instruction for the past six years. He was with the master's program of Boston University, teaching research and statistics and was a high school teacher in Georgia for 13 years.

"North Andover has wonderful opportunities with (superintendent) Dr. (George) Blaisdell and his vision for education, excellence in education, and the School Committee embraces that vision," said Dr. Binkney.

New teachers

"The high school has added a full-time math teacher, Jeff Fuller. And a science teacher, Steve Bucco, will return to North Andover to teach three periods," said Mr. Rozzi. "A part-time position in English with two teaching periods per week will be added with Mary Julie Gregoire teaching. The FOCUS program, which is designed to help at-risk students, will be a new program, which is staffed by Peter Conannon and Annice Kra in two full time positions. Part-time positions will be announced for two new classes in social studies and one in English."

Some North Andover teachers who had left will return to the high school: Patricia Maloney Brown, an English teacher; Elizabeth Bombaci, a Spanish teacher; and Isabel Parlee, a science teacher."

Athletics

Brian McNally, director of athletics at the high school, will continue to run the sports programs with a student-user fee.

"The user fee will cost $125 per sport, with a $300 cap for any student involved in three sports," said Mr. McNally. "Hockey has a $50 surcharge."

He said the sports program has a budget of $252,000 for this year. The budget is comprised of $100,000 from town funding, $90,000 from user fees, North Andover Athletic Association pledges of $45,000 and the revenue from last year's gate receipts.

Mr. McNally said some of the parents who have worked long hours to make the NAAA a success include William Jensen, president of NAAA; Bob Lyons, Sportswagon president; Paul Sullivan, treasurer of NAAA; Jo Marie Allen, volunteer coordinator; Margaret Finn, special events; and Susan Garvin, publicity.

The school had some winning athletes last year, including All-League co-champions with the Masco girls' soccer team. "And (NAHS girls soccer) can win this year. Some of our athletes left two years ago to go to private schools, but our teams will be competitive this year," predicted Mr. McNally.

Academics

Dr. Binkney is interested in seeing more writing on the part of students. He'd like to see the school provide the opportunity for them to write enough to even get published in newspapers or magazines.

"It is important for students to experience the power of the pen," said Dr. Binkney. "All students need to see and feel what happens when something is printed."

"North Andover school system is a place to grow," said Dr. Binkney.

He plans to write for grants for the North Andover schools and he will pursue sources such as Coca Cola Corp., which he said gave $6 million in grants in 1991, and the Mott Foundation in Michigan, or the National Endowment for Humanities in Washington.

"The Odyssey of the Mind, an international program which encourages creative problem solving, is a program I am interested in exploring," said Dr. Binkney. "My 13-year-old son, David, a student in the Newburyport High School, has been in the Odyssey of the Mind program and I can see how he has been stimulated to think creatively. Students are challenged as opposed to rote learning."

Boston Bicycle 12 - The Victor Co. 12

This evenly-matched game tied in extra innings. The BBC offensive was led by Abbie Woodroffe with a grand slam, Jennifer Busby with three singles, Cindy Su with a double and a single and Amanda Bruno with two singles. Julie Viola on second base and Jennifer Mann on first base made five great plays to keep The Victor Co. off base. Shortstop Cindy Su caught two hard-hit balls for the outs and catcher Beth Carrier snatched a popup for an out. Melissa Stone, and Kara Stamm controlled the outfield. Julie Viola pitched a no-hitter and Julie Litzenberger had a second-inning shutout and prevented a fourth-inning Victor rally by striking out the last two batters.

At 5:31 p.m., an Enfield Drive parent reported her daughter was receiving harassing phone calls.

At 6:26 p.m., an Andover officer assisted Tewksbury police in that town. He issued a cease-and-desist order to the operators of a furniture truck with Thomasville written on it located on the two towns' border. The operators were attempting to enter Andover to sell furniture off the truck.

At 9:30 p.m., a motorist on Route 125 near Vine Street reported someone threw apples at his car and hit his windshield. A few minutes later another motorist reported eggs thrown at his car near the same area.

Wednesday, Aug. 19 - At 3:35 a.m., a Salem Street resident called to tell police he believed someone was in his house, on the first floor. The responding officer reported the noise must have come from a raccoon going through trash outside.

Diet Center

Summer is coming to an end and all too soon the holiday season will be here. If this is the year you want to look your best, why not try the weight loss program chosen by Boston Magazine as the "Best of Boston '92". The Diet Center is the place to learn how to lose weight and keep it off for good.

The Diet Center teaches you how to lose weight while eating real food. There are no special foods to buy, just sensible eating patterns to learn. The professional staff at the Diet Center will develop and individualized weight loss program based on your energy needs. Utilizing the "Exclusively You" computer system, a program is designed which makes sure you burn fat, not muscle. The measurements are continued throughout the program to maintain the correct weight loss pattern.

Individualized support is the hallmark of the Diet Center program. Clients come in every day to get the full support of the counselors. The staff at the Diet Center is dedicated to making each client feel special and to provide the support necessary to keep morale high. Each of the counselors at the Andover Diet Center has extensive experience with the program. Susan Labe, the director of the center, has been with the program for six years. Gloria Volpe has 11 years experience. Mary Ann Skinski has 3 and one half years. Jodi Blynn has two and one half years, and Lori Carter is a successful client who has joined the staff.

The Diet Center's four phase program takes the client through the weight loss, and helps them stabilize the loss. For one year afterward, the client is monitored on a monthly basis to aid in the maintenance of the weight loss.

If you are finally serious about losing weight, come into the Diet Center and find out about the program that works.

The Diet Center is located at 63 Park St., Andover, in the Park Street Village Mall. Hours are Monday through Friday, 7:30 a.m. to 7 p.m. Telephone: 474-8910

We Guarantee You The Lower Rate

When refinancing or buying a home, Andover Bank's Rate Lock/Re-Lock Option lets you lock in a rate at application for as long as 60 days with no points paid at the time of application. If rates decrease, you can take advantage of the lower rate (one time only) up to five business days prior to closing. Best of all, if rates should increase, Andover Bank guarantees the rate won't go above the rate offered when you applied.

So don't delay your application process simply because you think rates may go down. Apply now and our Rate Lock/Re-Lock option will provide you with the guarantee of a lower rate.

The no-alcohol establishment will have approximately eight tables and some stools at a bar-type table, he said. Bertucci Menucci's menu will be scaled down from the larger Bertucci's restaurants located in Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Connecticut, Rhode Island, New York and New Jersey, Mr. Crugnale said.

Having additional tables means that Mr. Crugnale won't be able to carry out his plans to decorate the restaurant as an old-fashioned Italian bakery. But, he said, it will still have a distinctive "funky and fun" look as do his other Bertucci's.

"The draw will still be our pizza, but we are working out exactly what we will and will not include," he said.

The Townsmen spoke with Mr. Crugnale last April when he first approached the ZBA with his proposal to open a satellite of the North Andover Bertucci's. At that time he said the goal at the new location was to alleviate some of the crowding at the North Andover Bertucci's, which opened about two years ago.

The name Bertucci Menucci doesn't mean anything in Italian, Mr. Crugnale said. He chose it "just because it rhymes with Bertucci's and we thought it sounded good."

Four run for state rep.

John Silva

"If Democrats push taxes and more spending, they won't get elected."

District

Mr. Silva said he does not see a problem representing both Andover and Lawrence.

"I have roots in both communities," Mr. Silva said. "I would represent them by knowing both communities."

He grew up in Lawrence and still owns a house on Tower Hill. Ninety percent of the Lawrence neighborhoods in the district are owner occupied, he said.

"They're working people," he said.

And he went to school at Merrimack College and now lives in Andover.

"Andover is not new to Tony Silva," he said.

Abortion

Mr. Silva is pro-choice.

"I believe in a woman's right to choose," he said.

Gov. Weld

Mr. Silva is "anti tax and spend," he said.

"I feel that I can relate to Gov. Weld in terms of his economic policy," Mr. Silva said.

As a professional, Mr. Silva said he can work with anybody, including Gov. Weld, to do the job. He also said that he would be able to get more done than Rep. Coon.

"Gary Coon is a Republican in the minority," Mr. Silva said. "A moderate Democrat like myself can get more done on the inside of the majority than he can in the minority."

John Silber

Mr. Silva called John Silber, potential gubernatorial candidate in 1992, "a capable man," and said he supported his candidacy in 1988.

"He has to learn better communication," he said. "I think he has a lot to offer the state."

Mr. Silber speaks on a high intellectual level and is often misinterpreted, Mr. Silva said.

Privatization

It is always worth looking at better ways to do things, including privatization of public services, Mr. Silva said, but he would have to look at all the ramifications of a proposal to be sure it was improving the situation before he would support it.

"You have to look at the whole proposal," Mr. Silva said. "Whenever management can be more effective, I will move in that direction."

He said he wouldn't vote against something, such as keeping the Hines Auditorium public, just because he didn't like Billy Bulger's appointee, but would try to ask all the right questions.

"What is more efficient? What is more effective? What can bring more business into Massachusetts?" Mr. Silva said.

Reporter Don Staruk wrote these profiles. Next week: a profile on incumbent Gary Coon, R-Andover.

Workers break gas line

Construction workers broke a gas service line to a house on Bartlet Street Wednesday morning. No one was injured. Fire officials stood by.

The line was unmarked, said Ray LeVesque, a gas company official. It was unmarked because the gas company wasn't able to get into the house to locate the line.

"We left cards; we left notes," said Mr. LeVesque. "This is what happened. We can't get in there."

The crews are installing larger water mains along Bartlet Street and Holt Road this week. They will work on South Main soon.

At least two other gas lines have been broken during construction, and at last two water line have been broken.

Gas company employees ask that home owners who are contacted by the gas company along the construction areas cooperate and respond to requests for information, even if they don't have gas service any longer.

If a house once had service, the gas company needs to locate the line feeding into that house.

Kindergarten parents, note:

In the morning, when the morning kindergarten students get on the bus, it will be a bus with other age students. When those morning kindergarten students go home, it will be on a bus that has only that age on it.

Afternoon kindergarten students will be picked up by a bus that has only that age child on it; but when they are bused home in the afternoon, other aged student will be on that bus.

Avoiding college because it's expensive?

If you're thinking of not applying to college because you think you can't afford it, think again. Many students make this mistake because they don't know financial aid is available, says Sallie Mae (Student Loan Marketing Association), a corporation that specializes in providing funds for student loans and other education related services.

"Financial aid is awarded to students representing a broader range of income than you might think," says Dennis A. Kernahan, senior vice president at Sallie Mae. "If you need financial aid and you apply for it, you may be pleasantly surprised to find out that you qualify for assistance."

Here are some common reasons given for not applying for financial aid and reasons why it pays to apply.

I don't know where to begin. The first thing to do is request a financial aid application form from the financial aid administrator (FAA) at the school you're interested in attending. Your FAA can assist you in applying for federally-sponsored grants, loans and work-study programs and help you find other sources of aid.

Afford college with help from Fannie Mae

I'm returning to school, so I won't qualify for aid. Older students qualify for aid on the same basis as traditional-age students.

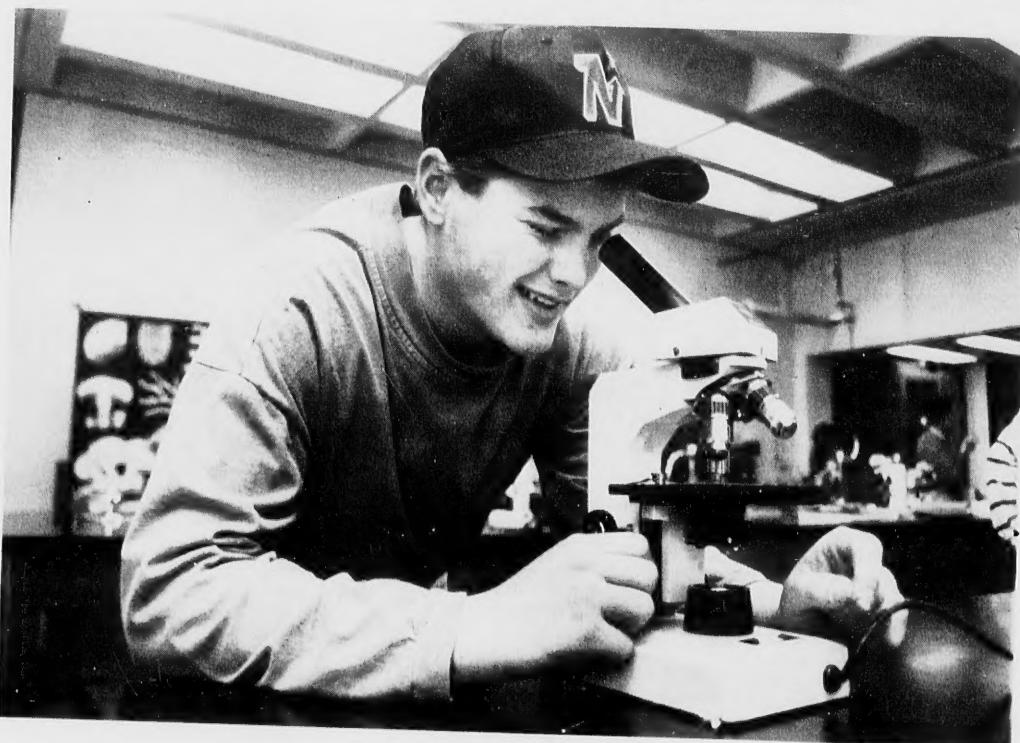

I don't want to reveal all that personal financial information on the financial aid application. All information on a financial aid form is kept confidential by the school and the agency that processes the forms.

The only aid I could get is loans and I don't want to graduate with loans to repay. When the choice is paying back loans or no school at all, many students choose to take out loans. Many lenders offer repayment options that can make things easier during the early years of your career.

I have money saved in my retirement account, so that will hurt my child's chances of getting aid. Money held in certain retirement accounts, such as 401(k)s, IRAs and Keoghs, isn't counted in the formula for calculating family need.

My sister was rejected for aid, so I will be too. Families with more than one child in college often have a much better chance of receiving aid than families with one child in school and so should apply for aid for each of their children.

My parents make a good living, so I know I'll never qualify. Many families make this assumption and never apply for aid. It's important to understand that income is only one factors used.
